Agricultural Dispute Wanted.

In the organization of all agricultural societies, it has been the avowed purpose and object of its organizers thereby to secure and appropriate by combination of effort among the farmers, all such stimulus and helpful suggestions as the usual exhibitions and addresses of such societies could afford. In these latter days many of these societies have fallen very far away from these high standards, allowing themselves to drift into practices that have a questionable influence upon the community, and especially upon the farmers themselves. In too many cases the management of these societies has fallen into the hands of men more in sympathy with a class of community that have no part or lot or taste for agricultural or horticultural pursuits. To make these societies most useful and beneficial to the farming community, each department must be fostered with equal care. In case any branch of the exhibition seemed likely to fall for want of attention and patronage, it should be the business of its officers to secure such patronage and thus secure an equilibrium of every portion of the society's interests. But alas! this is not the case with the Ulster County Agricultural Society and many others. More and more, year by year, we hear of the "fast horse, the course, the race, the trot, the betting, the pool, the winning, the money," &c., &c., while the most shabby treatment and utter neglect is meted out to the other departments. Few, if any, cows, sheep or oxen are found on exhibition; poultry, pigs, agricultural implements and machinery are still more scarce, while fruit, flowers, and domestic products are in such meager supply as to make the exhibition seem almost a farce. Even the rough and shabby places where these fair are often held, are so unclean and neglected as to suggest a rapid decline and decay of interest and health. What further contributes to this improper and unhealthy condition of things, is the significant fact, that the greatest premiums are offered on the horse, the fast horse.

It is with pain that we notice that the handsome sum of Eleven Hundred Dollars, now in the treasury of the "Ulster County Agricultural Society," has been appropriated for the building of a stand to accommodate the people who wish to see the race. This may be in accordance with the general wish of the stockholders and members of this association, but we must say it seems an unfortunate application of the funds. That amount of money, applied to the improvement of the Hall, would have, in our opinion, more effectually subserved the interests of the society and produced a more beneficial effect on the community. If there are those who need the elevating and refining effects of a horse race, let it be given them; but do not prostitute the aims, object and funds of the agricultural society to this purpose. There are doubtless in this county a large number of farmers, fruit growers and others, who would take pleasure in sustaining an agricultural society that would confine itself to the legitimate objects of such an organization, but are not willing to contribute either their money or presence to support a race course. Therefore it seems only fit and proper that the department of horse and all pertaining thereto should be divorced from the Ulster County Agricultural Society.

Cheese Factories at Elgin.

We have some interesting statistics of a few of the factories represented in the Board of Trade at Elgin, the great dairy city of Illinois. Seven hundred cows contribute 15,000 pounds of milk per day to the factory of the St. Charles Association, and the average daily product of cheese is 1,500 pounds. The Huntley factory is now consuming about 22,000 pounds of milk, the product of 1,200 cows, and it turns out daily 2,200 pounds of cheese. The East Burlington factory uses the milk of 350 cows (3,000 pounds), and produces 800 pounds of cheese per day. The East Elgin factory, which expects to make this season, 70,000 pounds of cheese, uses each day 12,000 pounds of milk, contributed by 500 cows. During the past two months the Clintonville and the Larkin factories, which are superintended by the same man, have made 76,800 pounds of cheese. Gould's Home factory, with its monthly output of 1,300 tons, up to July 1 made 188,770 pounds of cheese, and this establishment on the 1st of January will, if no accidents prevent, have made and marketed fully 21,000,000 pounds of cheese, probably the largest quantity manufactured by a single factory or individual in the United States. The Kane County factory receives the milk of 700 cows, and has already this season made 100,000 pounds of cheese. The Richmond factory takes the milk of 800 cows, and calculates on 200,000 pounds of cheese as the season's product. The Spring Grove factory is supplied by 250 cows, and will this year make and sell 50,000 pounds of cheese. All the processes connected with the manufacture are in conformity with the latest and best methods, and this Elgin cheese rates in the Chicago market, with the best brands of that made in the dairy districts of New York. The product is shipped to California and to Europe, and it is stated that the agent of several European dealers recently announced his willingness to contract for 100,000 pounds at $10.25 per cwt., a rate which is believed to give as good profit to the producers as can be realized in any of the ordinary branches of farming.

Proper Care of Implements.

In many cases the wooden part of an implement will outlast the metallic. No one would think to paint or varnish, but it is different with many things, and as a general thing much more attention might be given to the proper preservation of iron implements than they receive. Many persons use paint for this purpose; but this is costly, and sometimes it would not pay to preserve wood at the cost of paint. It is not generally known that it is "only the oil, or at least chiefly the oil, that is in the paint, which is the preservative element of the material being added more for the "look" than any other reason. A piece of wood, well oiled, will last nearly or quite as long as though painted in the best manner. The American Agriculturist says that grade petroleum is quite as good as the best linseed oil for this purpose; and if so it is of course much cheaper, and within the reach of every one.

Good and Bad Apple Orchards. A correspondent of the Boston Cultivator, gives an interesting account of a good and bad treatment of an apple orchard in Lee, N. H. Twenty years ago 450 trees were set out on 5 acres of land—where they struggled under neglect, and were nearly all destroyed by heavy and injudicious pruning. After being 35 years, they passed into the hands of Dr. Eggers, of Lee. He plowed and applied a half bushel of wood ashes broadcast to each tree—planted with beans, which gave him 40 bushels from the orchard. The second year a bushel of ashes was applied to each tree—and some stable manure. On the fourth year of this new management, he obtained 600 bushels of apples from the five acres; the sixth year about 2,400 bushels—of which 500 barrels of the best picked sold for $1,000, and 100 for $150—the rest were made into cider.—Maine Farmer.

Christian Charity.

For nearly two thousand years this world has presumed to have been under the influence of the most perfect moral system ever organized. The resources of poetry and metaphor have been exhausted in the endeavor of glorifying, humanizing power. As the dew upon the mown grass and as show-ers that water the earth has been said to be its softening, fructifying character. The lion and the lamb should lie down together, wars should cease, fends and enmities should pass away, and the world be made a new Eden. But the men should give place to the charity which suffereth long and is kind. What a bright picture, what a golden outlook! The faint, the sick, the sinful, the discouraged, the down-trodden looked upon it, and their eyes lighted with hope, and their hearts warmed with love. But when the dawn of the new day, bright with the stars, and festering in Andersonville, blighted when they saw the old flag once more, But what has the world realized; how much of the alluring, fascinating prophecy has crystallized into fact? Something, we must concede, but not much. There is a working lesson in social evils, in the people's wrongs, there is a consideration for each other's troubles and needs marks the eras since the Marcellus Bird

Boroughines in emphatic language the charge of Warren, the expert accountant, that monies collected in his department have been withheld for months from the Treasurer and the directors of the defalcations the treasury would have been better off if such had been the case.

The Brooklyn papers this evening say that belief appears to be gaining ground that Mr. Sprague was not only fully acquainted with Rodman's scheme, but was an active participant in the defalcation and appearance of the party that the examination of the books in progress will show just what money he handled and what Rodman manipulated. For the money which he acknowledged receiving he has no receipt, and he has no receipt for the money received, and it is feared that the outcome of that necessity will be to put Sprague in the light of a positive defaulter. One of the circumstantial evidence against him is that he had been speculating in stocks and therefore had a temptation to gamble with the city's money. He is said to have been so far gone in his dissipation that he would have been himself make no statement. The collateral given to the city by him show that his operations were not confined to what slow going people would call legitimate business.

road, necessarily reducing the profit of the former to almost nothing. He contended that the government should have taken measures to a quarter of the present rates and considered it downright robbery as now management. There should, he claimed, be a superior power to combine and control the rates and the grange to see that the rates were not raised to any degree of success met this monopoly.

He was followed by Hon. Amasa Walcott who had considered the great question of railroad returns and said it his duty to come forward and tell his views. He said that the monopoly, and presented the rates of freight on the different roads. He said that it should not be the business of Congress to interfere with the rates of freight on the different roads. He spoke of three ways in which the great object could be attained—first, by a general law to fix the rate of travel, by a grant on all the roads in the country; second, to create new roads; and third, by purchasing all the roads and placing them under government management to be leased, which would open all roads to the people.

maignant water and air to the presence of a single case of attack of cholera. Eighteen deaths are reported from Millsburg for the twenty-four hours ending a five o'clock P. M. to day. Twenty new cases of all white persons, are also reported. The disease runs its course in from three to six days. The epidemic at Paris terminates in new cases and one death are reported to-day. A panic prevails at Millsburg and there is great alarm at Paris. Many are seeking places of safety and removing their families out of the infected district. Eight deaths from cholera are reported at Stamford.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEVITIES

—Three deaths from cholera are reported at Wheeling, Va., since Saturday.

—A party of twenty emigrants arrived at Castlegarden yesterday, the largest number for one day in a long time.

—The steamer Ironside, belonging to the Boston Steamship company, went ashore at Hog Island shoals Friday night and was totally wrecked. No lives lost.

—Two more horse thieves were hanged in England last Monday morning, and another of the same gang has been arrested and is now in jail at Bedford.

—An American Institute fair building is being erected on Sixty-third street and Third avenue, New York.

The latest departure in naval architecture is the construction of a Russian iron-clad, which is perfectly circular, and is driven through the water by six screw propellers. So far as the hull is concerned, it is the most perfect, ahead, astern, or spinning round like a top, the vessel is equally at home.

—Vice President Wilson told the story of his sickness to a reporter the other day. He says that he was sitting at the tea table in a room at the White House, and that he felt a numbness in his mouth. On raising a cup of tea to his lips he felt a singular and numb sensation in his mouth, but attended with no pain. He arose and walked out on the lawn, the same feeling continuing. He then returned to the room, and on returning to the house he saw in the looking glass, that his mouth was drawn out of level. Experiencing no other inconvenience, he wrote, that evening, eighteen letters and may have been in bed for a day. He consulted the physician, Dr. Edward Clark, who had treated Mr. Sumner for his spinal disease.
